1. INTRODUCTION

1.1 Policy

South Ocean Holdings Limited and all its subsidiaries (collectively referred to in this document as SOH) are committed to a policy of fair dealing and integrity in the conduct of their business. This commitment, which is actively endorsed by the Board of Directors of SOH, is based on a fundamental belief that business should be conducted honestly, fairly and legally. SOH expects all employees, directors and other representatives to share its commitment to high moral ethical and legal standards.

Any employee who has questions regarding conduct in specific situations should obtain guidance from his or her Manager, a Director or the CEO. SOH has established a Compliance Committee comprising the General Manager: Finance & IT, Manager: Human Capital and an Operations Manager to implement and monitor education and training programs for employees, to respond to inquiries from any employee regarding appropriate business practices and to investigate any allegation of possible impropriety.

It is the duty of all Directors and all Managers in the group to ensure that the Group ethical standards and policies are made known to all employees for whom they are responsible. Ultimately, however, it is up to each of us to adhere to SOH's principles of honesty, integrity and fairness, and to perform our duties in accordance with all laws and regulations.

1.2 Understanding the Code

As employees of the SOH group, we must understand and abide by many laws and regulations that govern business practices in our own countries and in the other countries where SOH operates. In all cases, we must maintain the highest level of legal and ethical standards in our business conduct.

We have created the enclosed manual to provide you with an overview of the SOH group's Code of Ethics and corporate compliance policies. This manual provides you with summary information on what constitute unlawful or unethical business practices and what to do if you know or suspect someone has violated a policy or law.

We must all take responsibility for preserving the integrity of the SOH group. We rely on our employees to protect the reputation of SOH by committing themselves to ethical behaviour and by reporting suspected or actual violations of these ethical policies. With your support, we will be able to ensure and maintain the good faith that stands behind the SOH group name.

This document outlines SOH's Code of Ethics, which applies equally to all employees and other representatives of SOH. The term "employees", has been used in the broadest sense and includes: all staff with whom a service contract exists, management, non-management, directors, contractors, consultants and temporary staff. The code is designed to inform employees of policies in various areas. Please study the code carefully so that you understand SOH's expectations and your obligations.

Compliance with the code by all employees is mandatory. If employees become aware of, or suspect, a contravention of the code, they must promptly and confidentially advise their line manager, the Human Resources Manager or the Chief Executive Officer (provided such person was not involved in the alleged violation), or through the whistle blowing facilities if fraud is suspected. The matter will be investigated and dealt with according to the SOH's Disciplinary Code of Conduct. Failure to report violations of the code will itself be considered a serious violation of this code. It is SOH's policy that no retaliation or other adverse action will be taken against any employee for good-faith reports of code violations.

Any waivers of or amendments to this code must be in writing and must be approved in advance by the Board of Directors. Waivers and amendments, and the reason therefore, shall be disclosed as required under applicable law and regulations. If employees are in doubt about the application of the code, they should discuss the matter with their line manager, the Human Resources Manager, the CEO.

2. COMPLIANCE WITH LAWS AND REGULATIONS

---

Employees must comply with all applicable laws and regulations which relate to their activities for and on behalf of SOH. SOH will not tolerate any violation of the law or unethical business dealing by any employee, including any payment for, or other participation in, an illegal act, such as bribery.

Employees must ensure that their conduct cannot be interpreted as being in any way in contravention of applicable laws and regulations governing the operations of SOH.

2.2 Intellectual Property Policy and Guidelines

Any invention or creative work developed or prepared within the scope of employment by SOH is the intellectual property of SOH and constitutes an important asset of SOH. Employees are responsible for the protection of SOH's intellectual property. They must always comply with intellectual property laws and respect third parties' intellectual property rights. Each employee is obliged to notify the CEO or Director /General Manager: Finance & IT of any intellectual property which qualifies for protection or possible infringement of the group's rights

Overview of intellectual property

Patents

In exchange for the full disclosure of new inventions, the inventor can obtain a right from the state to exclude others from making, selling or using the invention for a limited period of time.

SOH's policy is to protect inventions through the registration of domestic and foreign patents when appropriate.

Trade Secrets

This comprises business information that has actual or potential economic value to SOH, is not generally known and is kept secret by reasonable efforts. A trade secret has an indefinite life, as long as secrecy is maintained.

The protection of trade secrets requires the use of reasonable efforts under the circumstances to maintain secrecy. The use of confidentiality agreements is a fundamental element of SOH's efforts to maintain trade secrets.

Trademarks

These are words, symbols, and devices etc, which identify and distinguish the goods or services from others of the same kind. The owner of a trademark has the right to prevent others from using the same or a similar trademark. Rights in a trademark are created by its use in commerce and they continue as long as the trademark is used. Trademarks usually endure for a certain period of time.

SOH's policy is to protect all words, symbols or devices that identify and distinguish SOH goods or services by obtaining domestic and foreign trademark registrations. Include the Executive Director in the selection of trademarks for registration but also fully disclose potential plans for the trademark and the products.

2.3 Copyrighted or Licensed Material

It is both illegal and unethical to engage in practices that violate copyright laws or licensing agreements. SOH requires that all employees respect the rights conferred by such laws and agreements and refrain from making unauthorised copies of protected materials, including but not limited to printed matter, musical recordings, and computer software.

This right protects authors' original works in a tangible medium. Copyright law does not protect ideas, only the expression of ideas. Examples are software, plans, processes, photographs and diagrams. For example, this SOH manual is copyright protected.

Works which qualify for copyright protection and which are owned by SOH must include a copyright notice.

A work created for SOH by another party e.g. training manuals, is owned by that party unless excluded by law or there is an express agreement that the work is a "work for hire" or there is a written assignment (i.e. transfer) of the copyright to SOH.

General guidelines

- Each region has specific intellectual property laws which govern the various forms of intellectual property rights. Employees should consult their Executive Director for specific information.

- All SOH intellectual property must be protected in an appropriate manner. An appropriate type of agreement must cover interactions with third parties, which may/involve the transfer of confidential information (e.g. confidentiality agreements, joint development agreements, licenses).
- It is the responsibility of each employee to bring to the attention of his/her Executive Director, promptly and before any action is taken on behalf of SOH, circumstances with intellectual property implications or interactions with third parties in respect of SOH's intellectual property.
- SOH respects the intellectual property rights. If use of third party intellectual property rights is proposed, prior authorisation must be sought via the relevant Executive Director.

2.4 Competitive Relationships

It is unethical and unlawful to collaborate with competitors or their agents or representatives for the purpose of establishing or maintaining rates or prices at any particular level, or to collaborate in any way in the restraint of trade.

3. CONFLICT OF INTEREST

Employees are expected to perform their duties conscientiously, honestly and in accordance with the best interests of SOH to optimize business objectives.

Employees must not use their positions, or knowledge gained through their employment with SOH, for private or personal advantage or in such a manner that a conflict or an appearance of conflict arises between SOH's interest and their personal interests. A conflict could arise where an employee's family, or a business with which the employee or family is associated obtains a gain, advantage or profit by virtue of the employee's position with SOH or knowledge gained through that position.

Every employee must promptly inform SOH of any business opportunities that come to the attention of the employee that relate to an existing or prospective business of SOH.

If employees feel that a course of action which they have pursued, are pursuing or are contemplating pursuing, may involve them in a conflict of interest situation or a perceived conflict of interest situation, they should immediately make all the facts known to the person to whom they report and the Human Resources Manager, or a Executive Director.

3.1 Outside Activities, Employment and Directorships

We all share a very real responsibility to contribute to our local communities, and SOH encourages employees to participate in religious, charitable, educational and civic activities.

Employees should, however, avoid acquiring any business interest or participating in any activity outside SOH which would create, or appear to create:

- a) an excessive demand upon their time, attention and energy which would deprive SOH of their best efforts on the job; or
- b) a conflict of interest - that is, an obligation, interest or distraction which would interfere or appear to interfere with the independent exercise of judgment in SOH's best interest

Employees other than outside directors may not take up outside employment without the prior written approval of the business unit CEO.

Employees who hold, or have been invited to hold, outside directorships should take particular care to ensure compliance with all provisions of this Code. When outside business directorships are being considered by employees, other than outside directors, prior written approval must be obtained from the Chief Executive of SOH or Executive Director responsible for the division.

3.2 Relationships with Clients, Customers and Suppliers

SOH recognizes that relationships with clients, customers and suppliers give rise to many potential situations where conflicts of interest, real or perceived, may arise. Employees should ensure that they are independent, and are seen to be independent, from any business organization having a contractual relationship with SOH or providing goods or services to SOH, if such a relationship might influence or create the impression of influencing their decisions in the performance of their duties on behalf of SOH. In such circumstances, employees should not invest in, or acquire a financial interest, directly or indirectly, in such an organization. Any conflict of interest must be declared in writing to the business CEO.

3.3 Gifts, Hospitality and Favours

Conflicts of interest can arise where employees are offered gifts, hospitality or other favours which might, or could be perceived to, influence their judgment in relation to business transactions such as the placing of orders and contracts.

An employee should not accept gifts, hospitality or other favours from suppliers of goods or services to SOH. However, the acceptance of the following would not be considered contrary to such policy:

- a) corporate gifts less than R1 000;
- b) occasional business entertaining such as lunches, cocktail parties or dinners; and
- c) occasional personal hospitality such as tickets to sporting events or theatres.

Any bribe or attempted bribe must be reported to the employee's line manager as soon as possible. It is the intention that dealings with any supplier which offers bribes will be terminated.

Certain functions or operating areas may have more detailed rules governing the receipt of gifts, hospitality or other favours.

In addition, no bribes of any kind should be made by any SOH employee to any customer or potential customer to secure business.

Any employee receiving any gifts must declare the gift by completing the form (Gift declaration form) which must be signed by the CEO of the subsidiary and submitted it to the Human resource manager for record keeping.

Providing the occasional gifts to customers, as set out below, would not be considered contrary to such a policy:

- a) corporate gifts matter of less than R1 000;
- b) occasional business entertaining such as lunches, golf, cocktail parties or dinners; and
- c) occasional personal hospitality such as tickets to sporting events or theatres.

3.4 Bribes

Various anti-corruption treaties, laws and regulations require that neither SOH, its employees nor its representatives and agents directly or indirectly, pay commercial bribes or kickbacks or make payments to government officials, government employees or political candidates or any parties for the purpose of obtaining, retaining or directing business to any person. SOH expects all employees to comply with these treaties, laws and regulations. Penalties for violating the anti-bribery provisions of these laws can be severe and often include heavy fines and prison sentences.

3.5 Personal Investments

SOH respects the right of all employees to make personal investment decisions as they see fit, as long as these decisions do not contravene any provisions of this code, any applicable legislation, or any policies or procedures established by the various operating areas of SOH, and provided these decisions are not made on the basis of material non-public information acquired by reason of an employee's connection with SOH. Employees should not permit their personal investment transactions to have priority over transactions for SOH and its clients.

When considering the application of this section, employees should ensure that no investment decision made for their own account could reasonably be expected to influence adversely their judgment or decisions in the performance of their duties on behalf of SOH.

Employees involved in performing investment activities on behalf of SOH and those who by the nature of their duties or positions are exposed to price-sensitive information relating to SOH are subject to additional rules governing personal investments. These may be imposed by the Companies Act, the Stock Exchange of Johannesburg, Banks Act, Financial Services Board, Securities Regulation Panel and other regulatory bodies, industry associations and management. The rules include requirements for employees to:

- a) obtain prior written approval for, and to report on, their personal investment activity and the investment activity of those persons with whom they have a close relationship; and
- b) refrain from dealing in the shares of entities that SOH deals with during certain restricted periods, as well as SOH subsidiaries and associates; and
- c) All directors are to make an annual declaration of their interest and any other directorships and shareholding.

3.6 Insider Information and Insider Trading

Employees may receive information concerning SOH or one of its affiliates, business partners, clients, or customers that is confidential and not generally known by the public. If that information is "material" (i.e., publication of that information is likely to affect the market price of the shares of the entity to which the information relates), then the employee has an ethical and legal obligation not to

- (a) act on that information (i.e., buy or sell shares based on that information),
- (b) disclose that information to others, or
- (c) advise others to buy or sell the shares of the entity to which that information relates, until such information becomes public.

An employee's direct or indirect use of or sharing of such confidential, privileged, or otherwise proprietary business information of SOH or its partners, clients, or customers for financial gain, including investment by the employee or the transmission of this information to others so that they can use this information for their financial gain, constitutes insider trading, which is a criminal offense.

All SOH share trades are prohibited during closing periods, being the period from half year end starting 1 July, or year end from 1 January, until the results are released.

No employee of SOH in possession of material non-public information in respect of SOH or any of its subsidiaries nor any member of his/her family or household, trustee, family trustee, companies controlled by an employee and a close corporation, may buy or sell securities/shares of SOH, its subsidiaries, or engage in any other action to take advantage of such information.

To avoid even the appearance of an improper transaction, employees should clear any proposed transaction in SOH securities with the Chief Executive Officer of SOH before carrying out the transaction.

Insider trading prohibitions

Securities law provides for severe penalties for insider trading i.e. individuals who trade in securities on the basis of material non-public information or tip such information to others, including civil penalties, criminal fines (regardless of the amount of profit), and imprisonment. Material non-public information is any information, which is not available to the general public, which a reasonable investor would consider important in making a decision to buy, hold or sell SOH securities. Material information includes any information which could reasonably be expected to affect the price of securities (e.g. reports of earnings or losses, news of a pending or proposed merger, acquisition or tender offer, irrespective of whether it is negative or positive information).

Rules for all employees:

- If an employee of SOH or any of its subsidiaries has material non-public price sensitive information with respect to SOH, any of its subsidiaries or holding company, neither that person nor any member of his or her family or household, trustee, family trustee, companies controlled by an employee and a close corporation, may buy or sell securities of SOH or engage in any other action to take advantage of, or pass on to others, that information, or make any recommendation with respect to the purchase or sale of SOH securities.
- This also applies to non-public price sensitive information relating to third companies obtained in the course of employment with SOH, any of its subsidiaries.
- No employee in possession of material non-public information should purchase SOH securities on margin, make short sales of securities or buy or sell puts or calls on the securities.
- Transactions that are required for independent, non-investment reasons (such as the need to raise money) are no exception.

Rules for officers, Directors and employees who have access to unpublished price sensitive information:

- These persons are precluded from trading in SOH securities during "closed periods" as defined from time to time by the Board, which apply during the collation of results relating to financial periods ending in June and December respectively, until one full business day after the release of the results for the respective quarters, or when the board has published a cautionary announcement.
- Prior to dealing in SOH securities (even outside closed periods), all employees who want to trade in SOH shares must obtain prior written approval from the CEO of SOH by completing the appropriated share trading form (Application for permission to deal in SOH listed shares) and submit it to the Human Resources department.
- Directors of SOH is only allowed to trade in SOH shares after obtaining approval from the Chairperson of the SOH Board or Chairperson of Audit committee and submitting the form to the CFO for record keeping.

3.7 Remuneration

No employee may receive commissions or other remuneration related to the sale of any product or service of SOH except as specifically provided under an individual's terms of employment or as specifically agreed with management. No member of SOH's Board of Directors shall receive any compensation not permitted by the rules of the Johannesburg Stock Exchange, and other applicable law.

Employees may not receive any money or anything of value (other than SOHs regular remuneration or other incentives), either directly or indirectly, for negotiating, procuring, recommending or aiding in any transaction made on behalf of SOH, nor have any direct or indirect financial interest in such a transaction.

Remuneration for holding company executive directors and non executive directors and the CEO's of the subsidiary companies are approved by the Remuneration committee.

SOH funds, goods or services, however, may not be used as contributions to political parties or their candidates, and SOH facilities must not be made available to candidates or campaigns, unless specifically authorised.

7. FUNDS AND PROPERTY

It is every employee's responsibility to implement, maintain and enhance the effectiveness of the control environment in which they operate. All employees who have access to SOHs funds in any form must at all times follow prescribed procedures for recording, handling and protecting such funds. Operating areas may implement policies and procedures relating to the safeguarding of SOH property, including computer software.

Employees must at all times ensure that SOHs funds and property are used only for legitimate SOH business purposes. Where an employee requires SOH funds to be spent, it is the employee's responsibility to use good judgment on SOHs behalf and to ensure that appropriate value and authorization is received for such expenditure.

All payments made by or on behalf of SOH for any purpose must be fully and accurately described in the documents and records supporting the payment. No false, improper, or misleading entries shall be made in the books and records of SOH.

Complete and accurate information is to be given in response to inquiries from SOH's Internal Audit Team member and appointed Independent external Auditors.

If employees become aware of any evidence that SOH funds or property may have been used in a fraudulent or improper manner they should immediately and confidentially advise SOH as set out in the contravention of the code section of this document. It is SOH's policy that no retaliation or other adverse action will be taken against any employee for good-faith reports.

8. RECORDS

Accurate and reliable records of many kinds are necessary to meet SOH's legal and financial obligations and to manage the affairs of SOH.

SOH's books and records should reflect all business transactions in an accurate and timely manner. Undisclosed or unrecorded revenues, expenses, assets or liabilities are not permissible, and the employees responsible for accounting and record-keeping functions are expected to be diligent in enforcing proper practices.

9. EMPLOYMENT MATTERS

---

Decisions concerning such employees will be made on a case-by-case basis by Human Resources.

10.2 Media Relations

In addition to everyday communications with outside persons and organizations, SOH will, on occasion, be asked to express its views to the media on certain issues.

When communicating publicly on matters that involve SOH business, employees must not presume to speak for SOH on any matter, unless they are certain that the views they express are those of SOH and it is SOH's desire that such views be publicly disseminated. Employees approached by the media should immediately contact the Group Financial Director or individual responsible for corporate communications.

An employee, when dealing with anyone outside SOH, including public officials, must take care not to compromise the integrity or damage the reputation of any outside individual, business, or government body, or that of SOH.

As a general rule, SOH's position on public policy or industry issues will be dealt with by senior management of SOH and existing policies in this regard must be adhered to. The text of the articles for publication, public speeches and addresses about SOH and its business should be reviewed in advance with the individual responsible for public relations.

Employees should separate their personal roles from SOH's position when communicating on matters not involving SOH business. They should be especially careful to ensure that they are not identified with SOH when pursuing personal or political activities, unless this identification has been specifically authorized in advance by SOH.

10.3 Promotion of Competition

SOH believes in the principles of free competitive enterprise. Many of the countries in which SOH operates have laws that aim to promote this and severe penalties are imposed for anti-competitive conduct.

10.4 Competition Law

Employees of SOH are expected to familiarise themselves with competition law of South Africa and specifically the Competition Act, No 89 of 1998, and to act in terms of the provisions of this law when going about their duties. As such, employees of SOH who are in management, sales, marketing and administration positions are expected to attend the annual training on South African competition law provided by SOH.

11. PRIVACY AND CONFIDENTIALITY

In the regular course of business, SOH accumulates a considerable amount of information. The following principles are to be observed:

11.1 Obtaining and Safeguarding Information

Information necessary for SOHs business should be reliable, accurate and its confidentiality maintained. When personal information is needed, wherever possible, it should be obtained directly from the person concerned. Only reputable and reliable sources should be used to supplement this information.

Information should only be retained as long as it is needed or as required by law, and it is every employee's responsibility to ensure that such information is physically secured and protected.

Employees are not permitted to remove any company information when they leave the employment of the company.

11.2 Access to Information

Any information with respect to any product, plan or business transaction of SOH, or personal information regarding employees, including their salaries, must be kept strictly confidential ("Confidential Information") and must not be disclosed or used for improper purposes by any employee unless and until proper authorization for such disclosure has been obtained. ## 12. LEGAL POLICY AND GUIDELINES

12.1 Legal Policy and Guidelines

In all matters of legal relevance for SOH, it is imperative to seek initial or immediate advice and co-ordination from SOH's advisors. This applies, in particular to contract reviews and approvals, or whenever firm commitments are entered into or are to be terminated.

In the event of claims or demands by or against SOH (including audits, investigations or requests for information, etc.) external legal advisors should be consulted.

External legal advisors may only be consulted in co-operation with the General Manager: Finance & IT. For the purpose of safekeeping, legally relevant documents should be forwarded to the General Manager: Finance & IT who must arrange to safekeeping.

Legal Matters

Responsibility for SOH legal affairs rests with the relevant Executive Director and the Director/ General Manager: Finance & IT.

Guidelines

- Consultation with Executive Director

Your Executive Director and General Manager: Finance & IT should be consulted at the earliest possible stage of legally relevant affairs and before legal actions are taken e.g. negotiation of agreements.

- Contracts/Agreements

Contact the Executive Director in order to determine the contract review and approval procedure in each area. Where possible, SOH (and not the other contracting party) should draft agreements.

No agreement should be terminated before normal expiration term (even if the SOH has the right to do this unilaterally) without first having consulted your Executive Director and the Director/ General Manager: Finance & IT.

- Claims, demands and legal processes

Companies or individuals in the group may receive claims or demands from third parties or may be served with a summons or subpoena, order to show cause or other documents legally requiring that an appearance be made or that a response be given. In all these cases, the Executive Director and Director/ General Manager: Finance & IT should be consulted immediately.

- Third party requests for information and documents

In such cases, the requests should be brought to the attention of the Executive Director as soon as possible.

- Third party requests to inspect premises or documents

Other than routine inspections e.g. health, fire etc., the advice of the Executive Director should be sought.

- External lawyers/counsel

External lawyers should only be appointed with the approval of the General Manager: Finance & IT and the CEO.

- Signing of legal documents

All legal contracts and agreements should be signed by two Executive Directors of the Subsidiary after the contract / agreement has been reviewed by the Group's legal advisors.

- Safekeeping of original documents

All significant contracts (including confidentiality, consultancy, lease and license agreements), and originals or copies of all corporate minutes, as well as other documents of significance to SOH, should be forwarded to the Director/ General Manager: Finance & IT or the CEO for filing in a central repository.

12.2 Guidelines on business-related documents i.e. notes and memos

Most legal systems do not consider business-related documents (e.g. hand-written notes, memoranda and e-mail messages) as privileged, with the result that these documents can be inspected and copied by government agencies and private litigants. Any business-related documents about competitive matters, may, due to ambiguity or exaggeration, convey the erroneous impression that there has been contact with competitors with respect to prices or other anti-competitive conduct.

Business-related documents should be written clearly and carefully to avoid misinterpretation.

The following should be kept in mind:

- Do not use words suggestive of guilty or surreptitious behaviour (e.g. "please destroy after reading").
- Do not overstate the significance of SOH's competitive position or a production or marketing strategy (e.g. "dominant position", "this will cripple the competition").
- Do not speculate on the legality of business conduct.
- Do not describe the competitive activities of competitors or customers as undesirable or objectionable (e.g. customers are "lost", not "stolen"; price cutting is not "unethical"; and persons who charge higher or lower prices than SOH are not "mavericks").
- Do not suggest that a customer or a class of customers is getting special treatment (e.g. "for you alone").
- Do not use language that falsely suggests collusive conduct (e.g. "industry agreement" or "industry policy").
- Any press release regarding costs, current or future prices, production or marketing strategy, joint ventures, acquisitions, or divestitures, should be reviewed by the CEO prior to publication.
